Preface

Many years ago the Lord gave me a prophetic story, an allegory. It came in such clarity and brilliance that I thought it was to be a three part novel that I would someday write. I received many confirmations that it would become a computer generated animation and that it would teach youth about spiritual warfare.

I began laying the foundation for the story by writing and describing what I saw in my spirit. As I wrote, even more aspects of the story began to unfold. The more I wrote, the more I saw. It is an amazing thing to watch the spiritual world burst forth in your spirit.

Colors, sounds and indescribable dimensions become real and there are simply no words to explain all that you sense and know. Everything is simultaneous, dynamic, and in perfect synergy.

There is no confusion or chaos even though there are a thousand thoughts and thousands of events taking place at the same time. You have to slow your mind down to capture the scenes and write them down, but in the few seconds it takes to describe one single thing, you instantly lose images of a thousand other things that you wish you could put down on paper as well.

I tried to describe the main characters of the story to various artists and many made sincere attempts. Some came very close to what I saw. Others saw something else, and I don't want to say they were off target.

Perhaps the Spirit of God was revealing something else to them, or maybe they saw one of those images that I only glimpsed.

That's the funny thing about attempting to take what you see and perceive in the spirit and trying to explain or express it in the seen or visible world. You find yourself talking like Jesus when he used parables to explain eternal truth. You use terms like, it looked like this or it sounded like that.

The Lord has made it clear that there is a legacy of spiritual reality that I am to deposit here in the earth. Other than my wife, my sons, and my extended family, there is nothing else of greater importance to me, than to impart this revelation to complete my purpose for ever having been born.

I don't mean to sound morbid or as if though I'm about to pass on, but I sense a heavy sobriety upon me that says I must write these things so that generations to come will have an understanding about the time in which they are living.

So I thought Kingdom Warriors was just a story, a comic book, biblical animation, and a movie, but it is actually what the Lord told me from the beginning.

He spoke to me through the Word he gave the prophet Ezekiel, THE WORD OF THE LORD CAME TO ME: "SON OF MAN, SET FORTH AN ALLEGORY AND TELL THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL A PARABLE." Ezekiel 17:1-2

Part of the reason I held back on releasing some of this was because it was so similar to the prophetic writings published by others in the 1990's.

I had been writing and preparing long before I came across similar books. As I read some of those prophetic writings, I took the position that I didn't need to write about this because God was already using others to release this kind of revelation.

However, in 2008, these things were revived in me. It's a prophetic word to prepare our church family to move with God in the 21st century.

I didn't know how it will come out. Sometimes it would read like a narrative. Sometimes it seemed like a journal. Eventually I stopped trying to predetermine a literary style. I wrote it as it came and described what I saw and heard.

BACKGROUND AND DEFINITIONS

I need to give you some of the background and understanding the Lord gave me about the warriors. So here's a list of definitions, terminology and prophetic interpretation, as far as I understand it to mean in the context of this prophetic writing.

Some of these definitions may sound like "New Age" rhetoric, but that is not my intentions. I've been working in the secular world during the five years that I was revising this book and I worked in the field of Communication. Please believe me when I say, THE WORLD HAS NO IDEA, NO FRAME OF REFERENCE, AND NO UNDERSTANDING OF CHURCH TERMINOLOGY.

I used terms that may make many people in the church uncomfortable, but new believers will "get it." My only caution for those who get offended by these terms is this: Please be patient with new believers and un-churched people. These terms do not mean the same thing to THEM as they do to you.

The Kingdom Warrior's Armor and Ammunition:

Belt and Girdle: A warrior's pure and honest lifestyle literally supports and protects the vital organs and hidden, secret areas of his or her life. A properly fit belt and girdle makes speed and agility easy and provides confidence in battle.

Chest plate: A protection provided by Commander instantly and automatically upon entering battle even to warriors immature in their skills and learning. However, training and drills in the Warrior Letters make this a privilege warriors never take advantage of or take for granted. The chest plate provides impenetrable protection yet allows the powers of the warrior to burst forth from within, proceeding through the plate, outwardly.

Boots: This special gear never lets the warriors grow tired or weary. Always in a state of readiness and alertness, these boots provide total silence and stealth allowing the warrior to be "cunning like a snake" in movement and strategy. They also provide swiftness and speed beyond anything known to the natural realm.

Shields: An invisible sphere of protection that surrounds every warrior, however, this barrier works according to the faith level and will of the individual warrior. It is always present, but never visible until impacted upon.

Helmet: This headgear completely encloses the warrior's head, save the nose and mouth. The section covering the eyes is inset with special visors for "Spirit Realm" vision. The helmet filters and amplifies all incoming transmissions and gives warriors the ability to work together like a single unit, responding to the instructions of Commander. All minds are protected as well as having enlightened awareness through this helmet.

Sword: The literal words of Commander, in the moment of battle, transformed into weapons. Although called a sword, it is actually whatever ammunition is needed at the time. Some weapons known to be expressed in battle are: lasers, fire, grenades, bombs, bullets, missiles, audio shock waves, water (floods), and walls of wind.

*It should be noted that all aspects of armor and ammunition are not merely inanimate objects, but are various aspects of the Commander Himself.

Commander: "God" the almighty creator of the universe. The ultimate ONE behind the strategy to set the planet Earth free from the slavery of the invading forces of the evil prince of darkness.

Kingdom: The loving rule and reign of God in the hearts of His citizens (sons and daughters).

Kingdom Citizen: Any human being who becomes a son or daughter to the true God of the universe through the union and allegiance to the Commander's Captain of the Host. A person receives Commander's presence, government and kingdom within their heart.

- One of the major myths on Earth is that God is already residing in every human. However God is only in those who receive His divine presence. All qualify, but relatively few actually enter this level of allegiance.

- Another myth is that all references to God are the same and that human beings are just using different names for the same God.

Kingdom Challengers: Citizens who join with the spirit realm military effort to establish the Kingdom of God on the planet Earth; often referred to as warriors.

Spirit Realm: The place of seeing things as they really are: the invisible/ unseen world.

Natural Realm: The place of seeing the events of the Spirit Realm unfolding in the physical visible world.

Intercession: The position and posture where strategy is received and battles are fought against evil; also the means to protect another person or confront evil's strongholds in hearts and minds.

Gifting: These are abilities given to warriors for intercession and battle.

Ancient Writings: The literal code and character of the Commander for generations of Citizens and Challengers to learn, live and come forth from their hearts and lives.

The Enemy: Evil personified. The deceiver or satan, who has billions of cohorts setting up a planetary slavery of all humans. Human beings ARE NOT the enemies of the Kingdom Warriors in any way, shape or situation. Human beings can be manipulated by the enemy, but they never become our true enemies. We realize that even when they oppose us, they have been deceived into viewing us as their enemy.

This is just a basic foundation to bring understanding for the many things I will write.

PROLOGUE

From the ancient writings came discoveries of a sinister order established in the midst of our world from a spirit realm that intermingled with our own. I fought to grasp the meaning of the words on the pages and was able to decipher some of the hidden messages within the letters and documents written to people from civilizations of as much sophistication as the present, but lacked, with gaping inferiority, the technology we relied upon for our every need.

I learned that the planet was not a mere accident of nature and that the humanity was not a slice of the evolved. We were actually a powerful race of spiritual beings that also shared both a physical and natural existence. We were a dual reality.

I learned there was indeed a Creator of the universe and mankind was His crowning achievement. I learned that He set His highest creation on this planet and gave him total authority and right to rule and reign over it. But one of the Creator's angelic ones turned against the creator. That rebellion migrated to our planet and through a secret war waged by deception; mankind lost connections with both the creator and the spirit realm.

This truth was originally hidden from the vast majority. Eventually they would accept and perpetuate, by conditioning, the ideas of the dominant world powers. Some of those first leaders learned to tap into the spirit realm because they discovered that the fallen angelic rebels would grant riches and influence. What they ultimately failed to understand was that they, like all of humanity were under the slavery of the evil powers from the spirit realm.

I learned there was a remnant of mankind who did not bow to the evil powers. They saw that the world leaders were mere puppets in a greater battle. These first warriors were given an assignment; a task to reveal the truth. They went to great lengths to expose the deception, many losing their lives, but like a baton, they passed the assignment on from one generation to the next.

The writings spoke of the first warriors unleashing unimaginable power. They had the ability to shake the known world. Their battles were epic as thousands of citizens from hundreds of nations were rescued from the influence of the evil Lords.

But somehow, the stories became tales. Tales became legends and legend was reduced to bed time stories symbolic acts to explain our mission.

As time; the most formidable enemy of any mission, passed and innumerable revolutions took our world around its tireless sun, the initial task was altered, forgotten and finally abandoned.

Hundreds of years passed before the discovery of the ancient writings and the uncovering of the ultimate battle plan. The writings spoke of a mission where in the Creator secretly infiltrated the planet for over thirty years, culminating in a battle that opened the way for mankind to connect back to the Creator and regain abilities and authority in the spirit realm.

The ancient writings opened our eyes to consider the possibility that we could, indeed operate and live in the two realms. We are spiritual being beings living in a natural world. That was what the early Kingdom Warriors understood.

Our forefathers understood that since the evil princes had taken over the planet and “blessed” those who submitted to them, this made it difficult to convince the populous of our planet’s dual realities for they did not see themselves as slaves or in any danger. Having been indoctrinated for millennia through the arts, education, and religion and, in the last century, through media; fueled by basic human drives and desires, most saw our efforts as just another fanatical move to topple the ‘United World Peace’ initiatives. Recruiting was almost impossible and once again, their Kingdom voices were silenced quickly.

In the natural realm, Kings, Presidents and Governors ruled nations and cities by special powers, and were able to unleashed attacks on resistors by sending vile demons in the spirit realm to snuff out any uprisings among the inhabitants. They were fully aware of the dual reality.

Fear gripped the world as people realized that something bad always seemed to happen to anyone who did not bow to the Rulers. Disease, destruction, disasters and death would come in torrents like the crashing of waves on a rocky shore.

So with very little support and no way to network our efforts across the planet, we resistors found it necessary to go into seclusion for a time and find out more concerning the ancient writings and the strategy that would be necessary to liberate the planet from the princes and governors that ruled through their multi-realm skills of domination, manipulation and intimidation.

It was at this time that I came into awareness of this secret war. At the time, I was just a young recruit. It was during the years when we were making elementary discoveries in the writings.

One night I made a startling discovery about the weapons of the warriors. The disclosure of the passage in the writings said, THE WEAPONS OF OUR WARFARE ARE NOT NATURAL, BUT THEY ARE POWERFUL TO PULL DOWN STRONGHOLDS."

I thought about it for a moment. If the weapons were not natural, then our warfare was not natural. That must mean our weapons are super natural. Our weapons must be...spiritual. Therefore our warfare must be spiritual. This was more confirmation of a spirit realm. That must mean we have to use the weapons in another the spirit realm. Somehow we had to learn how to move in and out of the two realms. But this series of thought only led me to a dead end. What are the weapons and how do we use them?

"How," I groaned in frustration "How do we get these powerful weapons?"

"You must come to understand the one who had these words written."

The voice said behind me, and somehow I knew who it was before I turned to see. It was a soldier, the Captain of the Host described in the section of the writings that bore my name. His armor glistened with brilliance beyond our world, a full body covering of gold with silver trim. A crimson cape plumaged his shoulders falling gracefully behind him like a majestic waterfall. The sight of Him sent a literal shock through my being and I stumbled backwards into a fragile heap of trembling awe. I could not take my eyes off him and He spoke again.

"I am the Commander of the Host."

He paused to let me absorb the reality of his words.

"Since the day you found the ancient writings in the caves of Laodicea, I have waited for this moment for you to realize who I am and your need for me."

My mind was in a daze. I could barely comprehend His meanings and I knew He was aware of even that shortcoming within me, but He still uttered His mysteries to me.

"You have tried to fight the Governors and Princes on your own with your knowledge of My written sayings," He continued "but you cannot win this battle unless you come to know Me personally."

My eyes asked the questions and He answered.

"These writings," He stated pointed to the book on my desk, "apart from My spirit are of little value except to impose another philosophy into this dark system you are already enslaved to."

He stepped toward me unsheathing a sword that suddenly exploded with an echoing thunder, into a crackling, twisting bolt of living energy.

"This is the ancient writing," He announced with what looked like a smile from behind the radiance that would not let me see fully into His face. I felt the muscles in my forehead come together in multiple puzzled lines. What did he mean by this statement?

"When the words on those pages come directly from me to you," He instructed "they become this weapon in your hands."

The revelation overwhelmed my intellect. I positioned myself to my knees and bowed face down before my new commander.

"Teach me your ways, my Lord," I said and from my inner being. A wave of compassion, joy and freedom swept over me. "From this day forth, I will follow and obey only you."

"I know you will," I heard Him speak inside of me and I opened my eyes and looked up in sudden surprise to no longer hear him speak from without, but to feel and hear Him from within.

"And I will be with you always," He solemnly swore from deep in my being "even until the end of the age."

From that day I was never to be the same. He led me to others who were already engaged in the war. It was a necessary season of discovery. I was able to learn from soldiers with far more experience and wisdom. They assigned me to a training camp. I was allowed to go out on rescue excursions. I learned in the field and I learned at the feet of instructors.

I studied the writings as though it was the first time and was taught its true meanings. After time and experience, I was able to pass the new discoveries on to others who were my first recruits in the fight to free humanity from the evil beings that ruled our planet.

Now to all the warriors who read these sayings in the years to come, remember our true mission on this planet. Though I will not be present to see the freedom come in my lifetime, you could be the generation that overthrows the governors and princes and makes the world ready for the glorious entry of the commander's official return to restore mankind's rule and reign upon

His beloved world.
